Foreword

For the sophomore, it's the newness of being a high school student . . .
For the junior it's the experience of being an upperclassman . . .
For the senior it's graduation and a new career . . .
but for each there are new problems, new friends, new happiness . . .
a new world to conquer.

Mrs. Maxine Perdue

For her work on our class plays . . .
Guidance as Student Council Advisor . . .
Helpfulness as a teacher . . .
Assistance with the drill team . . .
Efforts to perfect the follies . . .
Understanding . . . Friendship . . .
For all this, we the Senior Class of 1967, say Thank you as we dedicate this volume of the Cronus to

MRS. MAXINE PERDUE

Conquering a New World through Academics

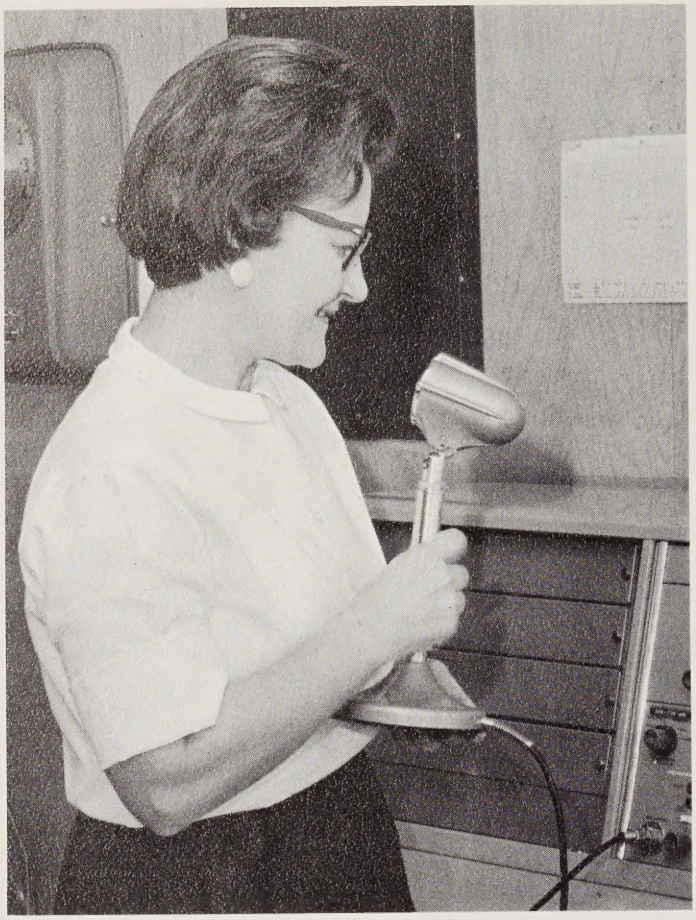
The key figure around West is ou principal, Mr. Harold Simpson. His yard stick may emphasize his authority, bu even without it all the students respec him. His regulations of the activities a West Forsyth are taxing on his health bu have had no effect on his efficiency Thank you, Mr. Simpson, for doing you Bear-size job in making West Forsyth th school we are proud to belong to.

Concerned with all students

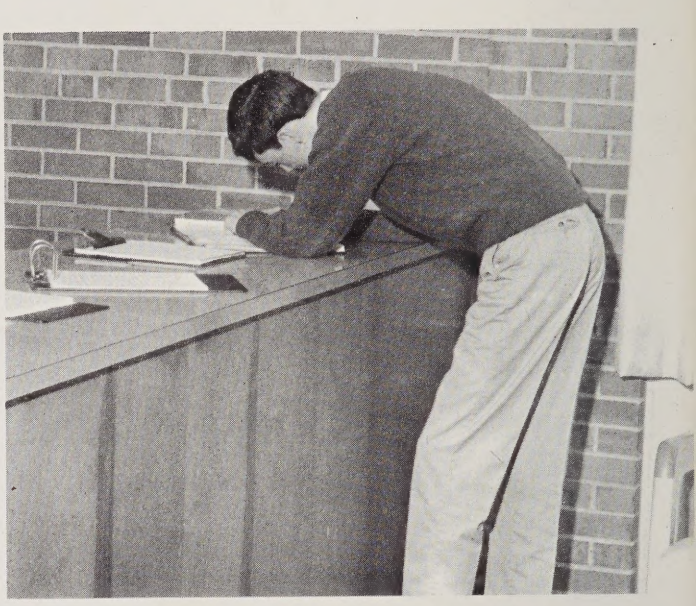
Directing buses isn't the only job of Mr. Jerry Peoples at West. He also serves the school as Assistant Principal and as a psychology and math instructor. Mr. Peoples (NC State, Appalachian State Teachers College, Vanderbilt, UNC-Greensboro, B.S., M.E.) also works hard as sponsor of the Key Club.

It's always nice to know somebody wants to help you. The number one listener to troubles at West is the Guidance Counselor, Miss Rosalie Adams (Catawba, B.S. Appalachian State Teachers College, M.A.).

Keeping a place of order and organization



Many times a day Mrs. Irene Harper needs to call someone over the public address system. But that is not her main job. She is the general secretary for West. Her work varies from calling parents to pick up sick students to keeping up with the finances of all the clubs.



There are many places in the office for students to sign in or out. The purpose is to keep up with each student—hopefully!

Mrs. Mildred Furches is a welcome addition to the administrative staff. Although she is secretary for the Guidance Department, Mrs. Furches also helps students use materials in the guidance office.

Probing the world of books

West welcomes Mrs. Mary Vance in her first year as our librarian. Mrs. Vance (UNC-Greensboro, A.B., Columbia University, Wake Forest, M.E.) gives lessons concerning the library to English classes, and she also is the sponsor of the Library Club.

The library offers students the opportunity to read for pleasure or for their classes and assignments.

Mrs. Maxine Mast and Mr. James Anderson find they have very similar problems in teaching their senior English students the merits of English literature. Mrs. Mast (High Point, B.A.) and Mr. Anderson (Catawba College, B.A., Appalachian State Teachers College, M.A.) are senior class sponsors.

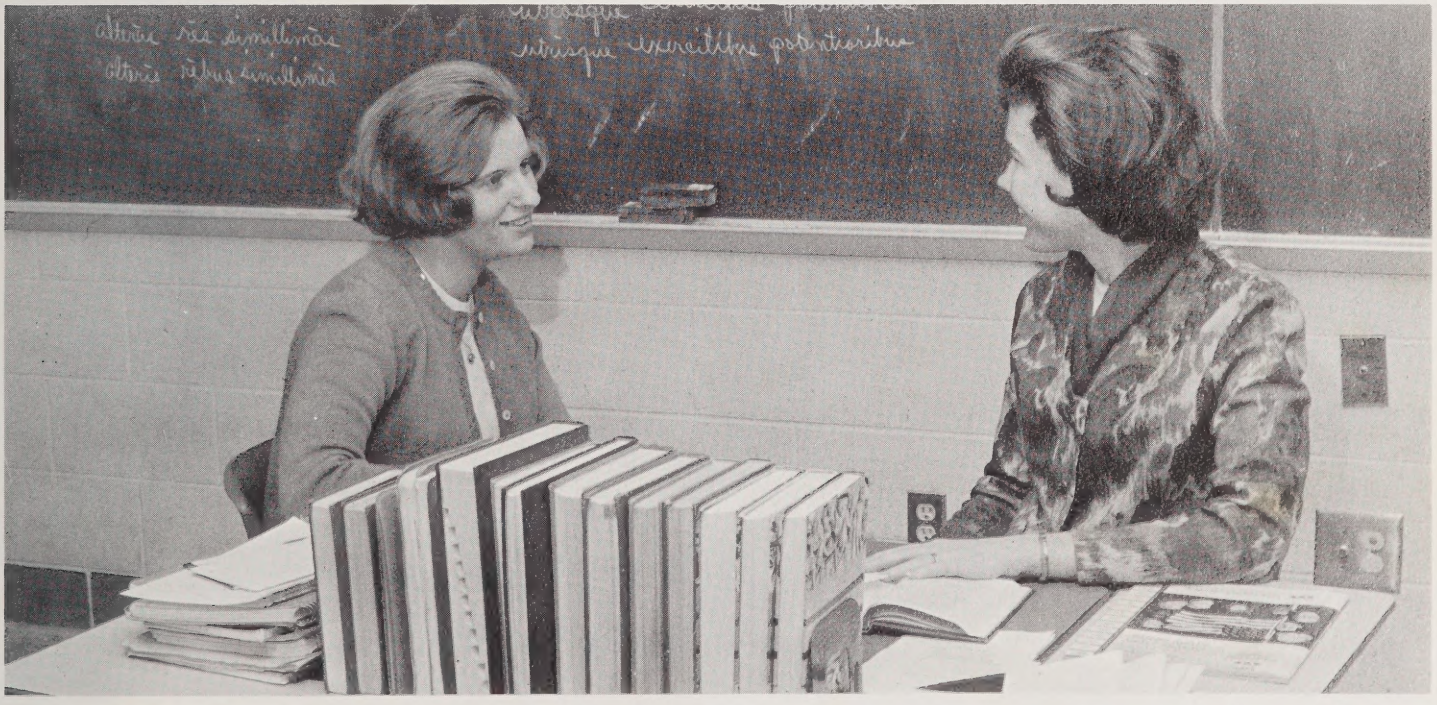
Some to be chewed well; some, digested

Teaching the active Juniors keeps English teachers Mrs. Juanita Clarke and Mrs. Jane Everhart busy. Besides English III, Mrs. Clarke (Meredith College, A.B.) teaches Business English and Creative Writing while sponsoring the West yearbook. Mrs. Everhart (UNC-Greensboro, UNC-Chapel Hill, B.A.) sponsors the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders as well as teaching English III.

Mrs. Margaret King decides that even Miss Ruth Farthing deserves a piece of candy, the usual reward to students giving book reports. Mrs. King, (UNC-Greensboro, B.A.) teaches English. In addition to teaching English II, Miss Farthing (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S.) also finds time to sponsor the school newspaper.

Je ne comprend pas

Miss Shirley Epps and Mrs. Sandra Howerton have found that earphone sets and tapes help their students with pronunciation. Miss Epps (UNC-Greensboro, B.A.) teaches French I and II. Mrs. Howerton (UNC-Greensboro, B.A.) teaches French I,II,III and English III.

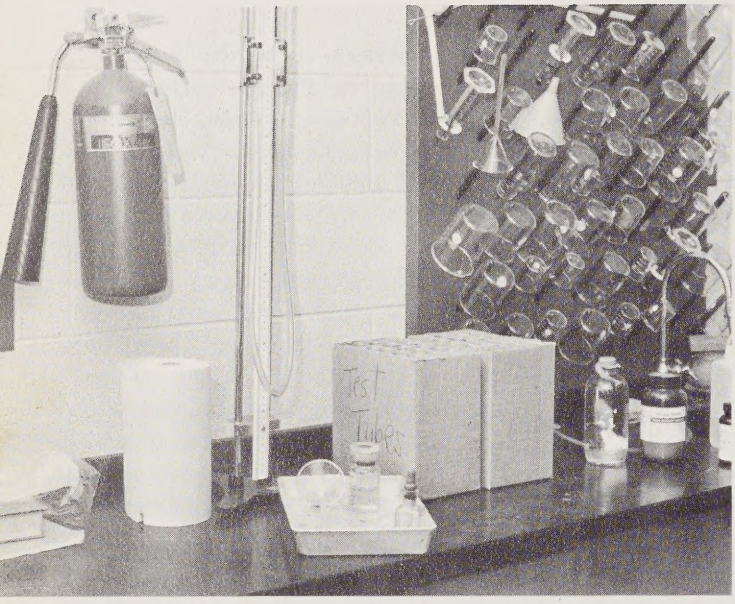


Miss Ruth Harrington and Mrs. Nancy Brown talk over the problems of teaching foreign language to their students. Mrs. Brown (Wake Forest College, B.A.) teaches Latin and is sponsor for Y-Teens. Miss Harrington (Greensboro College, B.A.) teaches Spanish.

Science . . .

in search of answers

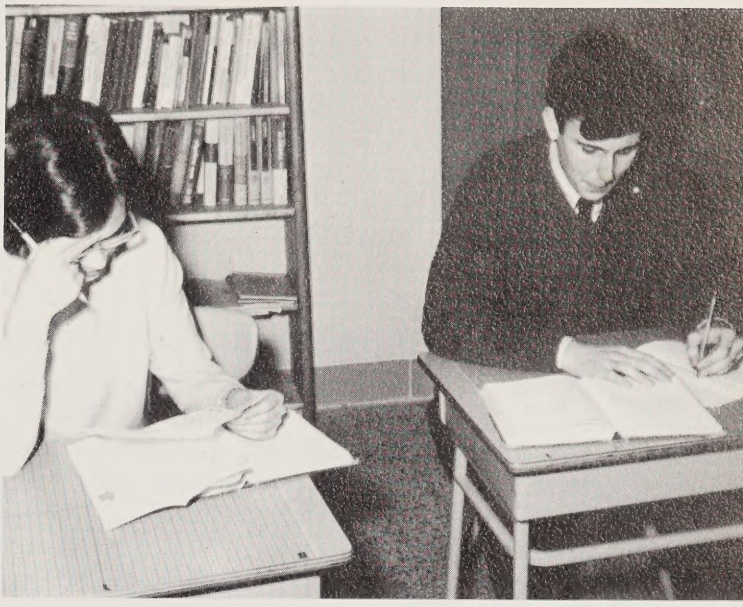
Are you wondering what that specimen is called? Just ask biology teachers Mr. Donald Mauldin, Mr. Marcus Allred or Mr. William Snyder. Mr. Mauldin (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S.) teaches biology, general math and physicial education. He is also the football line coach and head coach in wrestling. Besides teaching general and advanced biology, Mr. Snyder (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S., Wake Forest, M.A.) sponsors the Science Club. Mr. Allred (Guilford College, B.S.) teaches biology and physical education and has coaching duties in cross country, basketball and baseball.



Teacher's lab—same as students' but on a larger scale.

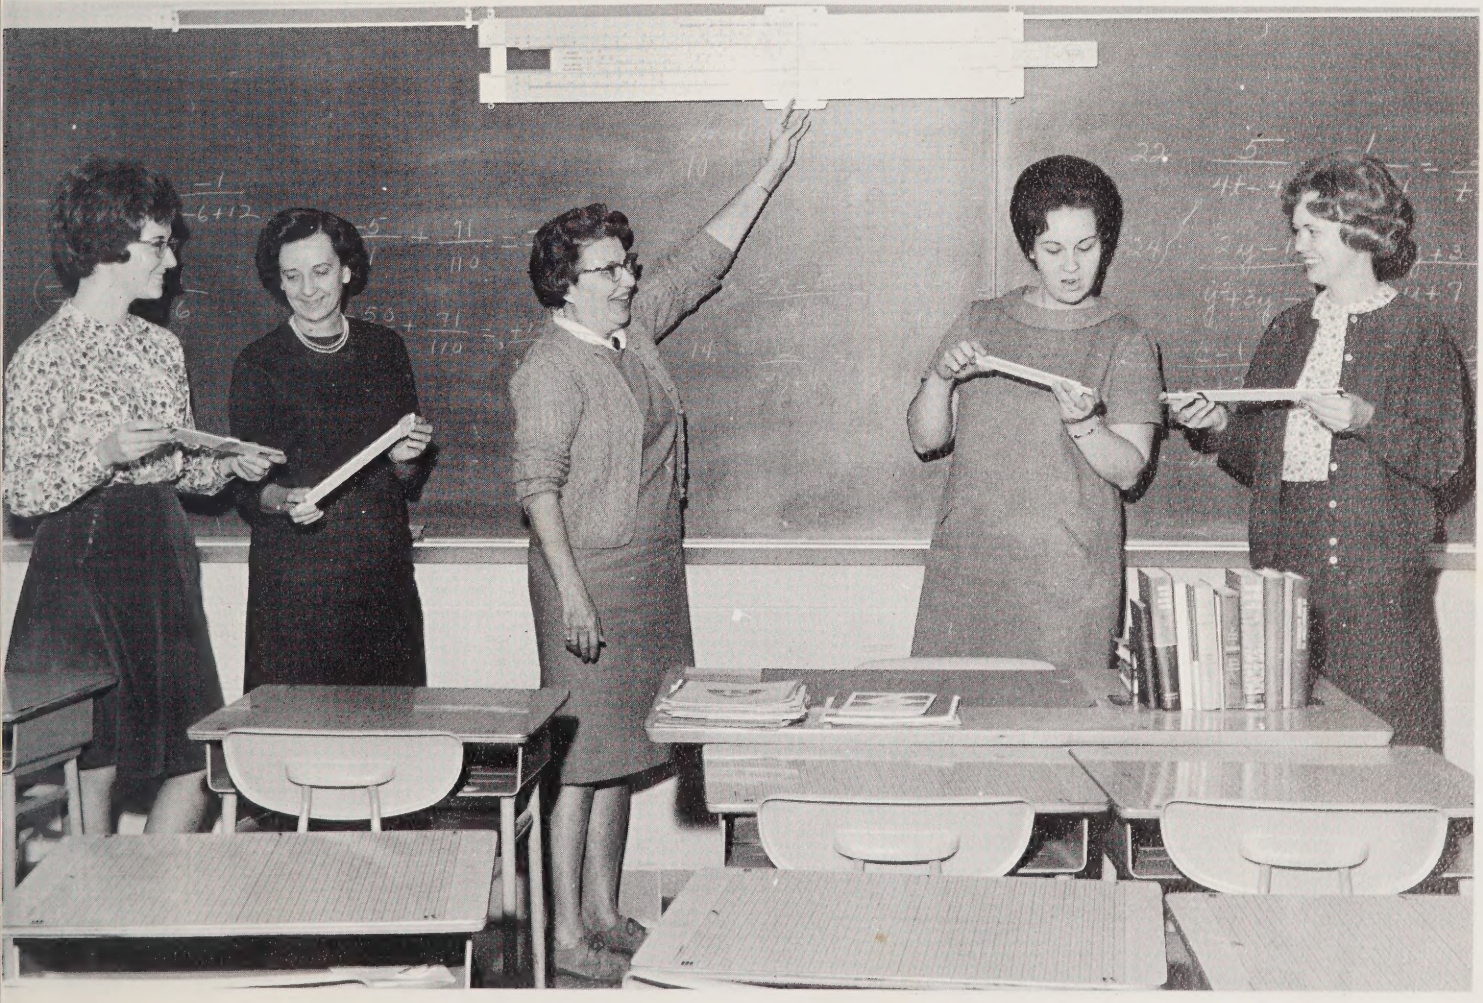
It isn't often that our chemistry teachers have time to take it easy. Both Mr. Fred Parker and Mrs. Frances Scott teach other subjects. Mrs. Scott NC State, B.S.) also teaches Algebra I and II. Physics offers variety for Mr. Parker (Livingstone College, B.S., Columbia University, M.A.), the sponsor of the Junior Engineer Club, is the co-sponsor of the Science Club.

But, can you give a proof ?



Now what did the Law of Sines say?

So now we know their secret! That's how West's math teachers solve those problems so quickly. More and more of the students have learned how quick and efficient slide rules can be. The teachers are Mrs. Frances Scott (NC State B.S.), Mrs. Charlotte Inabinet (Appalachian State Teacher's College, B.S.), Mrs. Bonnie Green (College of Wooster, B.A.), Mrs. Maxine Perdue (Salem College, B.A.), and Miss Mary Currin (Meredith College, A.B.). These teachers have other activities. Miss Currin sponsors Drill Team, Mrs. Perdue, Student Council, Senior and Junior plays, and Mrs. Green, the National Honor Society.



For use Today and everyday

Miss Sally Huffman and Mrs. Elizabeth Greene agree on the fine quality of this apron made by one of the boys taking Home Economics. Mrs. Greene (UNC-Greensboro, B.S.H.E.) and Miss Huffman (UNCG-B.S., M.S.) work closely together as teachers of home economics and co-sponsors of the Future Homemakers of America.

"Delicious" is the word to describe home economics for Rhonda Beck and Brenda Jones.

New worlds are built on the old

Even history teachers must read their assignments. Time magazine is the "book" for the contemporary history class of Mr. Frank Robinson (UNC-Chapel Hill, B.A.) who also teaches U.S. and World history. Family living and history occupy Mr. Charles Miller (Lenoir-Rhyne, B.A.) during school hours. After school he has duties as assistant coach in football, basketball and baseball.

Mrs. Harriet Binkley (Flora MacDonald College, B.A.) sponsors the Future Teachers of America and also conducts classes of U.S. and World history. Mr. James Mast (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.A., M.A.) teaches history and physical education. He is chairman of the Athletic Council.

No matter what shape . . . you study in.

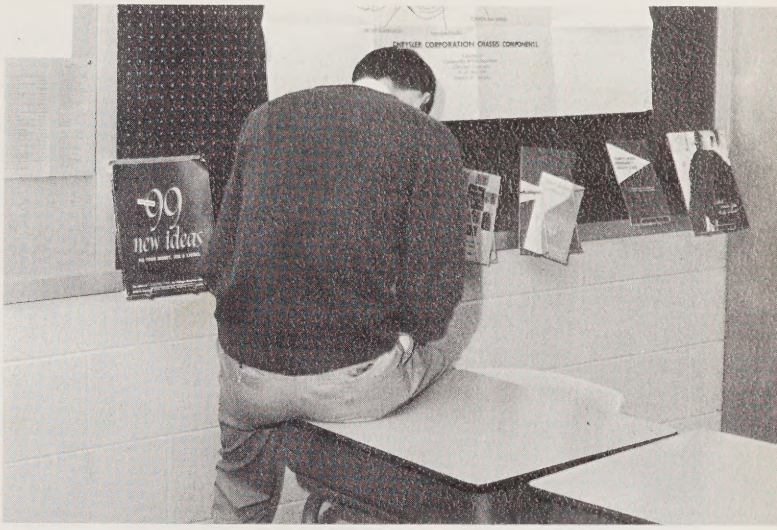
Introduction to the world of business

The commercial department has much to offer to all students. Mrs. Dorothy Russell (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S.) teaches typing and shorthand. Also teaching typing and shorthand as well as general business is Mrs. Audrey Crater (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S.). Bookkeeping is added to the curriculum by Mrs. Iris Bridges (Catawba College, B.A.). (Above, Mrs. Crater, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Russell).

Pecks change to clicks as this personal typing class advances.

Experience is the best teacher

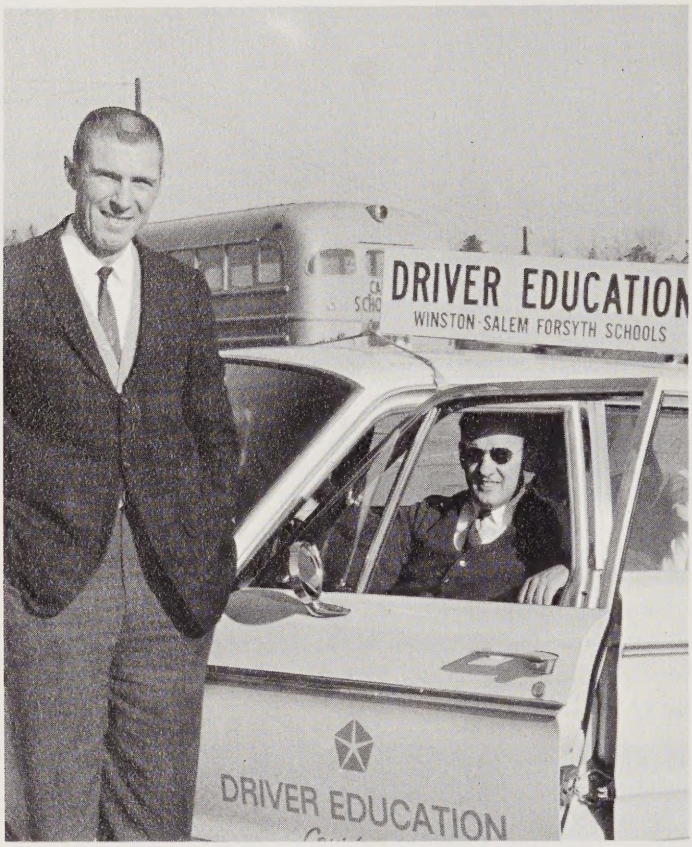
What? A teacher studying? No, just refreshing his memory. Mr. Charles Giles (Wake Forest College, B.A., George Peabody College, M.A.) teaches Industrial Co-operative Training and sponsors the Vocational Industrial Club.



ICT offers information for planning for the future.

A packed up desk goes along with the job of Mrs. Juanita Bowser (Brenau, B.A.) in teaching the Distributive Education class at West. Mrs. Bowser is also sponsor of the D.E.C.A. Club.

Coordination of mind and body



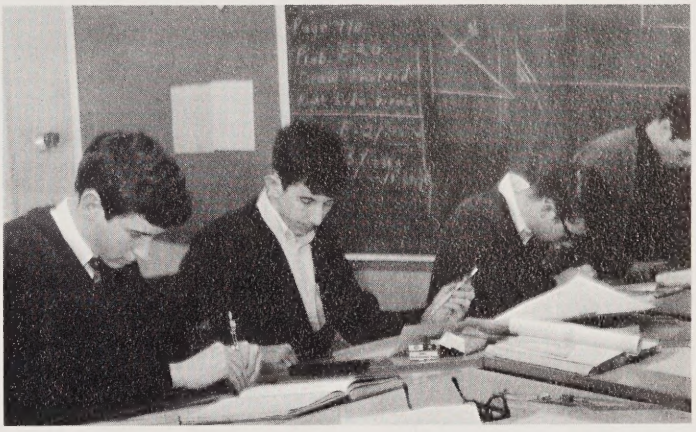
Driver's training is an important part of the high school student's education, agree instructors Mr. Worth Seats (Catawba, B.A.) and Mr. Eugene Sechler (Atlantic Christian, Duke, B.A.).

Mr. Maurice Young finds it hard to believe that Miss Frances Cook really made that basket. It's no wonder though, for both teach physical education. Coaching goes along with this subject. Miss Cook (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S.) coaches girls' basketball, speedball, volleyball, and softball and sponsors the GAA. Mr. Young (UNC-Chapel Hill, B.S., M.E.) also teaches biology and coaches football and track. He is sponsor of the boys' Monogram Club.

Hands learning useful skills

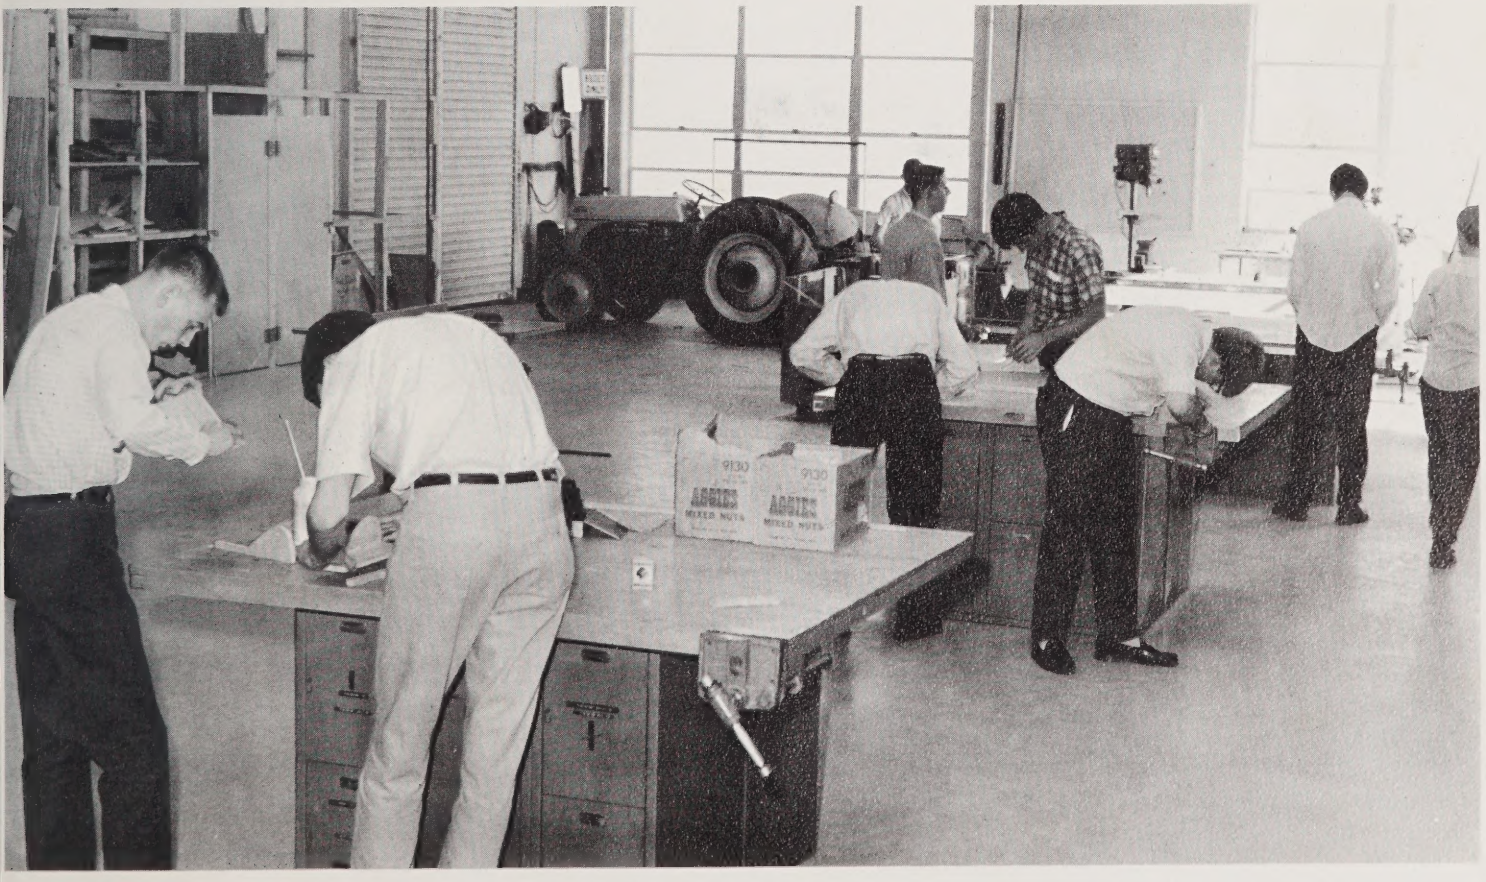
Shop is the subject Mr. Thomas Pratt and Mr. Donald Larimore have in common. Mr. Pratt (V.P.I., B.S.) also teaches agriculture and sponsors the Future Farmers of America. Mr. Larimore (East Carolina, B.S.) teaches mechanical drawing and coaches football and golf.

Mr. Larimore and Mr. Pratt.



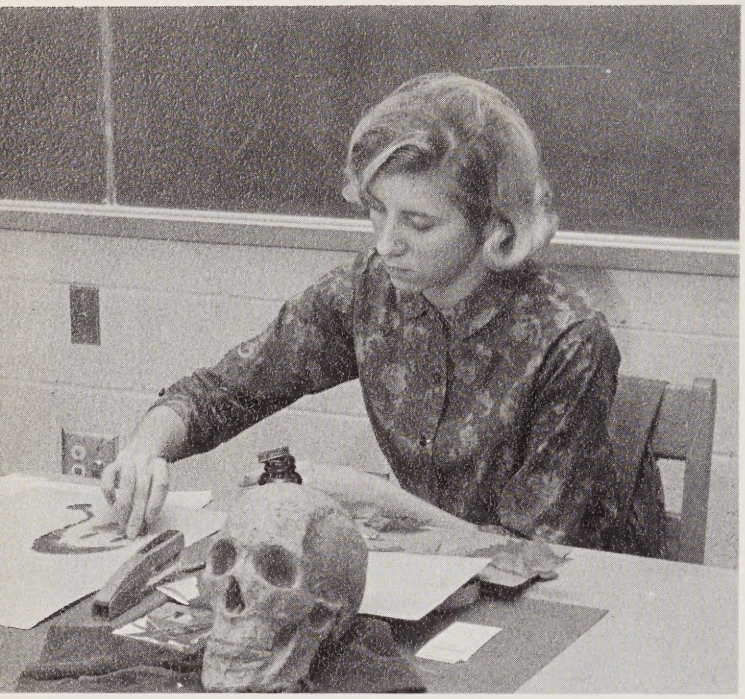
David Hill and Bill Helms work intently on their drawings.

Shop provides a free and easy atmosphere for learning.



Learn to appreciate —

then perform

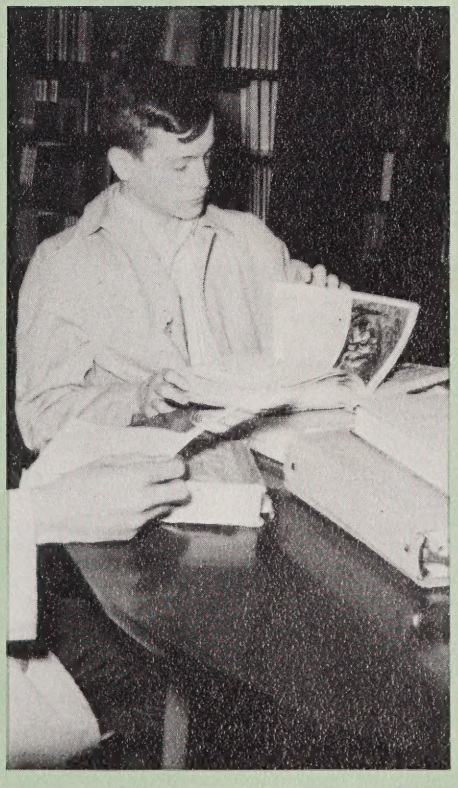


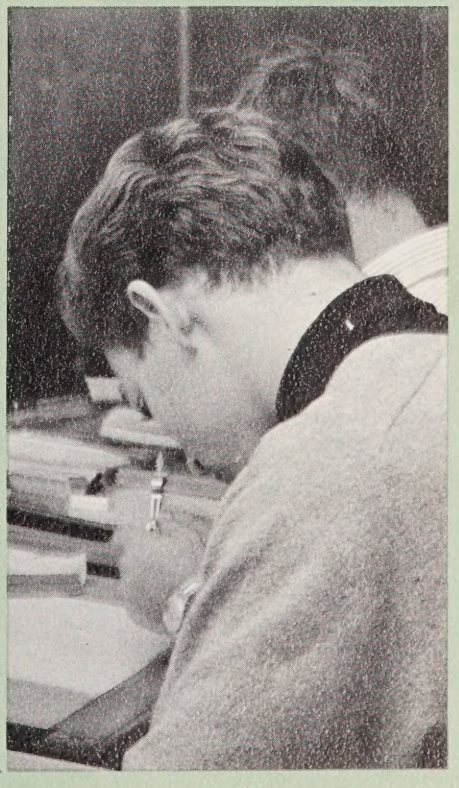
This is Miss Judith Hoover's first year at West Forsyth. Notice the "watchdog" on her desk that she made to help her keep an eye on her students. Miss Hoover (Appalachian State Teachers College, B.S.) teaches art and English.

Still life makes the classroom as charming as the drawings.

At home in front of a piano, Mr. John Foreman is the director of music at West. Music is a variety of subjects but hardly more varied than the Meistersingers, band, majorettes, and color guard sponsored by Mr. Foreman, (West Chester State, B.S., Eastman School of Music MM.) The excellent quality of the performances of these groups reflects the instruction given them by Mr. Foreman.

Conquering a New World through Classes





Senior leaders—Sandy Melton, treasurer; Terry James, secretary; and John Whitener, president—confer with senior class sponsor, Miss Frances Cook.
